CONVENTION NOTES.

The Democratic national convention at Denver concluded its labor by the nomination of John Worth Kern of Indiana for vice-president. The nomination was made by acclamation. Charles A. Towne, Archibald McNeill and Clark Howell, whose names had been presented, withdrew before a ballot was reached.

Mr. Taft and Chairman Hitchcock and Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican national committee declared that publicity of campaign funds would be observed strictly by the Republicans.

For the third time, William Jennings Bryan was nominated for the presidency by the Democrats. Only one ballot was needed in the Denver convention to reach this result, which came after a day and night of tumultuous enthusiasm and wild disorder. Gov. Johnson of Minnesota and Judge Gray of Delaware also were put in nomination. Before balloting the convention unanimously adopted the platform.

Two sessions were held the second day of the Democratic national convention, but little was accomplished. In the afternoon there was a remarkable Bryan demonstration, the cheering lasting one hour and 19 minutes. In the evening, after several speeches, the credentials committee reported, unseating eight of the Guffey Pennsylvania delegates. A minority report was made and after an acrimonious debate was rejected by a vote of 615 to 387. The majority report was adopted by a viva voce vote.

The second day's session of the Democratic National convention at Denver was presided over by Congressman H. D. Clayton of Alabama, the permanent chairman, who delivered an able address. The committee on platform, with Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma as chairman, heard arguments in favor of many planks and announced that it could not report until the third day. The committee on credentials heard contests from five states and the District of Columbia.

WOMAN SHOT HER SON-IN-LAW

NEW YORK DENTIST WAS PROBABLY FATALY WOUNDED.

Man Who Went Free After Killing His Father-in-Law Figures in Another Sensation.

Northport, N. Y.—Standing within a few feet of the spot where, a little more than two years ago, he shot and killed his aged father-in-law, Dr. James Simpson, a dentist of New York, was shot and perhaps mortally wounded Monday by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bartley T. Horner, the woman he made a widow. Dr. Simpson's wife, from whom he has been estranged for many months, was near when the shot was fired, but did not witness the shooting. Upon learning that it was her husband who had been wounded she refused to go near him and Dr. Simpson had to crawl to a house 200 feet away to have his wounds attended to.

Mrs. Horner was later arrested and held in $5,000 bail, while Dr. Simpson, with the assistance of two friends, made his way to Roosevelt hospital in New York. The bullet lodged in his liver and an immediate operation was performed to take the bullet out. The doctors say that Dr. Simpson has only a small chance of recovery.

Statements from Dr. Simpson and from Mrs. Horner as to the circumstances attending the shooting disagree. The dentist says that he had received word that his wife intended to sue him for a divorce and that he went to the Horner home to talk with her about it. He says he rang the doorbell and upon receiving no response peered through the door pane. He saw Mrs. Horner and called to her to open the door. Then, Dr. Simpson says, Mrs. Horner grabbed a revolver and shot him. The bullet entered his body above the abdomen and he fell back against the door sill. A second shot was fired at him, he claims, but the bullet went wild.

Mrs. Horner does not deny that she did the shooting, but she claims justification. She said that Dr. Simpson had several times called at the house and that his visits were unwelcome. When he came Monday she says she ordered him away and when he refused to go she took up a revolver and shot at him.

Constable Hanson, who arrested Simpson in 1905 when the dentist shot Mrs. Horner's husband, arrested Mrs. Horner. She was charged with felonious assault. After Justice Hawkins had fixed bail at $5,000, Mrs. Simpson, the prisoner's daughter, qualified as bondsman and secured the release of her mother. Justice Hawkins set the hearing for Wednesday.

This second tragedy at the Horner homestead is only another chapter in a series of unhappy domestic events during the last few years. The shooting of Bartley T. Horner by Dr. Simpson aroused the countryside in December, 1905, and when the dentist was put on trial his wife took the witness stand against him. Mrs. Horner also gave damaging testimony against her son-in-law. Dr. Simpson was going through the manual of arms with a shotgun when he accidentally shot his father-in-law.

MADE A GOOD START.

American Athletes Did Well in the First Day's Events of the Olympic Games.

London, Eng.—Rain interfered badly with the opening of the fourth international Olympiad by the king at the stadium at Shepherd's Bush and although it cleared off an hour before the hour set for the formal ceremony, the attendance fell short of expectations. The seating capacity of the stadium is upwards of 70,000, and while the covered stands contained sections which were well filled, there were many vacant spaces.

The American team of athletes are well satisfied with the results obtained by them on the first day, having got two men, J. P. Sullivan and Melvin W. Sheppard, both of the Irish-American Athletic club, into the final heat, which will be run to-day, of the 1,500-meter race. They were unfortunate in the first heat, when two of their best men at the distance had to run against each other and these same conditions prevailed in the second heat, when J. P. Halstead, New York Athletic club, was beaten by his team partner, Melvin W. Sheppard, by half a yard.

"I handed him the gun and he loaded it." The customer suddenly turned into a robber and Gegleon was asked to reveal the hiding place of money it was supposed he had in his store. With the revolver pressed against his head, Gegleon opened the cash drawer, moved boxes and emptied sacks to convince the robber there was no money in the place.

Ohio has now six prohibition counties, as against three last year. Hamilton county lost two saloons, Cuyahoga 12, Franklin 29, Lucas 24.

PLATFORM WITH JUST ONE PLANK

IS ADVOCATED BY DELEGATES TO OHIO PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS

Are Named—Chairman Peeke Denounces Woman Suffrage and the Anti-Saloon League, but Praises George B. Cox.

Columbus, O.—A platform of one plank, confined to the single issue of prohibition, is the object of a movement started at the opening session of the state Prohibition convention Monday afternoon by Temporary Chairman H. L. Peeke of Sandusky, and the struggle will be carried to the national Prohibition convention on Wednesday.

Chairman Peeke, in an address which consumed more than two hours, assailed female suffrage, which has come to be regarded as an established tenet of the Prohibition party, declaring that women drink more and men less than they did a decade ago and that the weakest laws regulating the liquor traffic are in the woman suffrage states of Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming. He assailed the indifference of the churches to the prohibition movement, criticized the Anti-Saloon league and praised George B. Cox of Cincinnati for refusing to credit any votes to temperance that were not cast for Prohibition tickets.

At the night session the committee on permanent organization recommended E. J. Pinney of Cleveland for permanent chairman. It had been expected that Temporary Chairman Peeke would be made the permanent presiding officer, but opposition developed on account of his criticisms of the attitude of churches toward prohibition and his attack on woman suffrage.

E. E. Frazier of Wellsville was recommended for permanent secretary. Speeches were made by Samuel Dickie of Albion, Mich., and Joshua Levering of Maryland, formerly candidate for president.

Indications point to the nomination of A. S. Watkins of Ada for governor, and J. B. Martin of Hamilton for lieutenant governor.

The following candidates for congress were selected at the Prohibition district meetings held prior to the meeting of the state convention:

- First district—Dr. John Robertson, Hamilton.
- Second—A. Y. Reid, Hamilton.
- Third—Rev. H. A. Thompson, Montgomery.
- Fourth—J. M. Lippincott, Allen.
- Fifth—Not represented.
- Sixth—Rev. D. B. Hypes, Greene.
- Seventh—M. C. Shuman, Miami.
- Eighth—Simeon McMorran, Champlain.
- Ninth—J. T. N. Braithwaite, Ottawa.
- Tenth—T. H. Winters, Lawrence.
- Eleventh—H. L. Baker, Athens.
- Twelfth—D. A. Poling, Franklin.
- Thirteenth—L. C. Reed, Marion.
- Fourteenth—J. W. Holton, Lorain.
- Fifteenth—Knox Montgomery, Muskingum.
- Sixteenth—W. Scott, Belmont.

Is Accused of Many Burglaries.

Ravenna, O.—H. W. Silvernail, who is said to have considerable wealth, is locked up in the county jail on a charge of burglary, and Sheriff McMichael declares if he is convicted on all the charges against him he will spend many years in prison. Silvernail is said to have robbed farmers in this and adjoining counties, using a wagon and team to haul away his booty. He might have escaped but for the fact that he asked Alliance officers to recover his team after D. B. Davis, a wealthy farmer of Edinburg township, had captured it when Silvernail escaped after two alleged raids on Davis' barn.

Puddlers' Wages Are Reduced.

Youngstown, O.—A settlement affecting 10,000 men in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri and Illinois has been reached at Detroit between the Western Bar Iron association and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the wage scale signed for the year ending June 30, 1909. By its terms the puddlers are given a cut of about 8 per cent in wages and the finishers an average reduction of about 2 per cent.

Vandals Maimed a Preacher's Horse.

Warren, O.—Bloodhounds on Monday were put on the trail of unknown persons who, for spite against Rev. A. B. Williams, Methodist pastor and temperance worker of Farmington, maimed his horse and damaged his buggy. The men entered Williams' barn, slashed the buggy top and broke two wheels and then cut off the horse's tail. The animal almost bled to death. The sheriff took bloodhounds to the scene and the county commissioners have offered $500 reward.

ODD NOTIONS OF DISLOYALTY.

Marsellaise Must Not Be Whistled in Berlin Streets.

Most Americans have little idea of what constitutes a treasonable offense in countries of the old world wherein despotic notions still prevail. A year or so ago there took place a trial in Barr, Alsace, which, according to our up-to-date ideas, would have been most amusing, had not a man's liberty been in jeopardy.

It appears that one day, in the streets of that place, a laborer at work had been cheerfully whistling. Suddenly a gendarme, who had been with him in hearing, appeared at the man's side. The workman, however, did not observe the officer, and continued to whistle his tune.

"You are under arrest," said the gendarme, placing his hand on the unsuspecting laborer's shoulder.

"What for?" demanded the astonished toiler.

"For seditious conduct," explained the officer. "You have been whistling 'La Marsellaise.'"

"La Marsellaise," because it is the French revolutionary air, is forbidden in German Alsace.

The workman at once indignantly denied the allegation, explaining that he had not been whistling "La Marsellaise," but the march of the Brunswick Hussars. "I used to belong to that regiment," said he, "and that is our regimental air."

The gendarme, however, who as a German, prided himself on his knowledge of music, insisted that he was well acquainted with both of the tunes in question, and that he could not be mistaken. Accordingly he took the offender into custody, and the man was in due course of time put on trial on the charge of having whistled a seditious tune in a public place.

Both the accused and the gendarme told their stories to the presiding magistrate with every appearance of truth and confidence. Moreover, as the workman had the reputation of being an honest and loyal man the court was much perplexed.

In this predicament adjournment was taken to the council room adjoining. The accused and the accuser were summoned in turn, and the workman was commanded to whistle the march of the Brunswick Hussars while the officer was ordered to render "La Marsellaise."

Each did his best; but the airs proved in the ear of the court to be so much unlike that it was regarded as highly improbable that the gendarme could have been mistaken. The accused was therefore sent to prison; but his general bearing, not to speak of his excellent whistling, impressed the court so favorably that he was sentenced to only three days' confinement.—Sunday Magazine.

A Woman's Reason.

"Of all the foolish reasons girls give for wishing to marry, or rather not to remain single," said Miss Afternoon Tea, "I think, 'because she wants Mrs. on her tombstone,' is the most insane. Why should she want it there where she cannot see it? I would much rather have Mrs. on my visiting cards than on my tombstone, wouldn't you, Clarice?"

Mystery of Natural Gas.
